

Table of contents

Tensions of Policing in Colonial Situations (Emmanuel Blanchard, Marieke Bloembergen, Amandine Lauro)

Part I: Policing Workforce and Colonial Disorders

Ordering the Wetlands. Policing and Legitimate Violence in the Leverville Concession (Belgian Congo, 1911-1920) (Benoît Henriët)

The Perils of Impartiality: Policing Communal Violence in Victorian India, 1858-1900 (Mark Doyle)

Coolies, Communists, and Capital: Policing the Rubber Crash in Malaya and Indochina (Martin Thomas)

Part II: Police at Work and Intelligence Gathering

Race, Violence, and White Crime: French Assimilationism and its limits in the Saigon Colonial Police (Melissa L. Anderson)

Policing and the Problem of Crime within Local Communities in Colonial Algeria, ca. 1850-1890 (Valentin Chémery)

Shaping an Empire of Predictions: The Mozambique Information Centralization and Coordination Services (1961-1974) (Sandra Araújo)

Part III: Borders of Imperial Policing

From Cooperation to Neocolonialism: Colonial Police and International Policing, 1920-1960 (Robert Whitaker)

Policing and Governance in Greenland. Rationalities of Police and Colonial Rule 1860-1953 (Søren Rud)

Missionaries of Royalist Nationalism: Transformations of the Thai Border Patrol Police during the Cold War (Sinae Hyun)